

Why is it useful to use resource and project management software?

61% of companies that use a resource and project management system manage to complete their projects on time

38% more success in achieving objectives with a clear structure of resource and project management

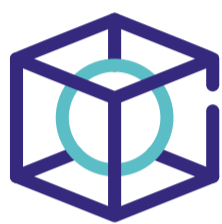

66% of companies that use software for resource and project management fit in the set budget

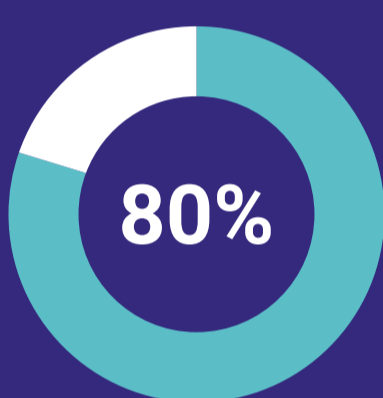

28 times more money saved by companies that have a resource and project management strategy

47% of companies that use software for resource and project management said that cost estimates are more accurate

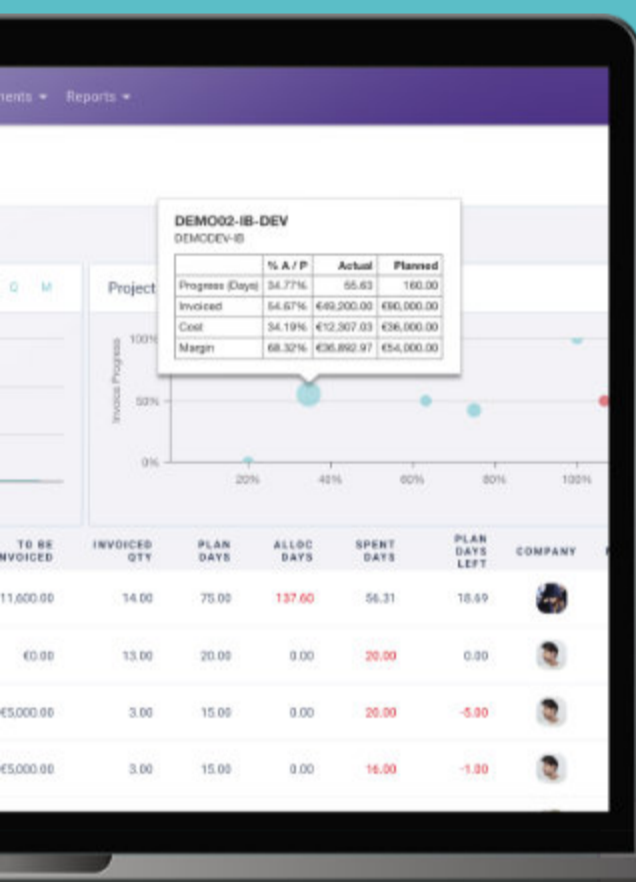

498 average hours saved (employee / year) by using software for resource and project management of companies gave high satisfaction scores in the use of software for resource and project management

Statistical data sources: The State of Project Management in 2020 [42 Statistics]; Pulse of the Profession study from the Project Management Institute.*

Identify, plan and supervise with SocrateRM

- Control your projects from kick-off to invoicing
- Minimize waste by optimally allocating resources
- Continuously improve your project processes by monitoring reports and analysis in real time
- Develop your business strategy by measuring the profitability of your projects and resources

rm.socratecloud.com

You have visibility on all the information related to the projects, on the way the budgets are spent, but also on the workload of the people from your teams.

Increase performance

Deliver projects faster in the time & cost terms of your contract

Reduce costs

Minimize waste by optimally allocating resources

Streamline your processes

Give autonomy to the team
Manage projects from resource allocation and task assignment to invoicing and performance analysis

It's time to take control of your projects and optimize your resource allocation! You will thus become a support for your teams and a reliable partner for your customers!

 SocrateRM

The complete solution for resource and project management!

Start a free trial today!

SocrateRM is a product developed by